

Table of Contents

(Being Smart About Gifted Learning by Dona Matthews, Ph.D. and Joanne Foster, Ed.D.)

Foreword by Rena Subotnik, Ph.D. xvii

Introduction 1

Postscript: A Bit about Being Smart, Editions 1 and 2 5

Section I: Being Smart About Giftedness 7

Chapter 1. Perspectives and Paradigm Shifts 9

What Is Giftedness? 9 Understanding Giftedness: Mystery vs. Optimal Match 10 One Child's Story 15 Giftedness, Neurodiversity, and Neural Plasticity 20 Shifting Paradigms 21 Origins: Nature or Nurture? 24 Domains of Competence 25 Is Learning Easy? 26 Other Terms 28 Talent Development 30 Historical Perspective 31 Guidelines and a Definition 34

Chapter 2. Creativity and Giftedness 39

What Is Creativity? 40 Can We Measure Creativity? 44 Nurturing Creativity in the Learning Process 47

Makerspace Programs 48

What's Involved in Nurturing Creativity? 49 Creativity is a Choice 50 What about Children Who Struggle with Creativity? 52 What about Teachers Who Struggle with Creativity? 54

Creating an Environment that Supports Creativity 55 Creative Parenting: Twelve Practical Ideas 55

Section II: Being Smart About Diagnosing Mismatches 59

Chapter 3. Questions and Answers About Testing 61

Who Needs Testing? 62 The Child Who Is Unhappy 63 The Child Who Is Doing Well 63 The Child Who Is Different than Others 64 Summary: Who Should Be Tested? 64

What Are the Key Testing Concepts? 65 Tests vs. Assessments 65 Standardized Tests 66 Percentiles 66 Standard Scores 66 Standard Deviation 67 Intelligence Quotient (IQ) 67 Group vs. Individual Tests 68

This material is protected by US Copyright and is to be used for reference purposes only.

Gifted Unlimited, LLC
12340 US Hwy 42 #453
Goshen, KY 40026
502-715-6306

What Purpose Does Testing Serve? 68 When to Test? 69 Age 69 Comfort with the Testing Situation
71 Retesting 72 Time of Year 73 Advance Preparation 73 Who Should You Consult? 75 Choosing a
Professional in Private Practice 76 When to Consult? 77 Pre-emptive Counseling 80 Why Test? 80

Chapter 4. Assessments And Tests 85

It Starts with the Parent or Teacher:
Dynamic Assessment 85

The Student Portfolio 87 Performance Assessment 88 Day-to-Day Diagnostics 89

Standardized Tests 90 Academic Achievement 90 High-Ceiling and Above-Level Testing 91

Intelligence Testing 94 Group-Administered Intelligence Tests 96 Individual Intelligence Tests 96
Nonverbal Tests 100

Creativity Testing 101 Career Interest Inventories 101 Nonstandardized Measures and

Other Information Sources 102 Surveys and Inventories 103 School Reports 103 Aptitude Testing 106

A Synopsis 108

Chapter 5. Mismatch Diagnostics: Labeling Learning Needs,

Not People 111 The Way It Ought to Be: Diagnosing Mismatches 111 Typical but Inadequate
Identification Processes 113 Labeling 118 The Label: A Mixed Blessing 119

Parents and Children Need to Know What's Happening and Why 123 New Directions vs Entrenched Ways 127 Diagnostic Emphasis 129 Early Identification 129 Parents' Roles 131

Section III: Being Smart About Meeting Gifted Learning Needs 133

Chapter 6. Differentiation: Meeting Gifted Learning Needs

in the Regular Classroom 135 A Wide Range of Learning Options 136 Differentiation 138 Optimal Match in Practice in the Regular Classroom 142 Choice 143 Curriculum Compacting 144

Project-Based Learning (Sometimes Called Problem-Based Learning) 146 Guided Independent
Study 147 Reading 149 Cross-Grade Resources: What Are the Possibilities? 151

Single-Subject Enrichment 152 Single-Subject Acceleration 153 Flexible Grouping 156 Career
Exploration Built into the Curriculum 157 Leadership Opportunities 159 Peer Coaching 161 Online
Learning 163 Learning about the Brain 165

This material is protected by US Copyright and is to be used for reference purposes only.

Gifted Unlimited, LLC
12340 US Hwy 42 #453
Goshen, KY 40026
502-715-6306

Systems of Differentiation 167 The Schoolwide Enrichment Model—SEM 167 The Integrated Curriculum Model—ICM 168 The Parallel Curriculum Model—PCM 170 Optimal Differentiation: Tying the Ideas Together 170

Chapter 7. Other Options: Stretching The Boundaries 173

Acceleration 174 Is Acceleration Right for Your Child? 175 Acceleration: Cost-Benefit Analysis and Strategies 177 Early Entrance to College 179

Gifted Classes 182 Full-Time Gifted Classes 182 Part-Time Gifted Enrichment Classes 184

Second Language Immersion and Dual Track Programs 185 Specialty Subjects 188 Specialized and Alternative Schools 189 Private and Independent Schools 190 Homeschooling 192

The Nature and Benefits of Homeschooling 193 Concerns about Homeschooling 195 Homeschooling Tips 197

Extracurricular Enrichment 199 Mentorships 201 Benefits of Mentorships 202 Mentorship Models 204 Structuring Mentorships 205 Travel 206 Before You Go 207 While You Are Away: 207 Do-Nothing Times 208 And So... 209

Section IV: Being Smart About Gifted Development 211

Chapter 8. Motivation and Achievement 213

Motivation: The Heart of Learning 213 Purpose 215 Flow 216 Praise: A Complicated Relationship with Motivation 217

When and How to Praise? 218

Praise: Strategies and Examples 219 Strategies for Motivating Learning 220 Finding a Balanced Approach to Online Learning 222 Innovative and Expansive Approaches 222 Arts-based Learning 223 Gifted Education Centers 223 Technology-Based Programs 224 Slow Schooling 224 Inquiry-Based Learning 224 Gift-Creation 225 Extrinsic and Intrinsic Motivation 225 Solving Problems of Motivation and Achievement 227 Academic Mismatch 227 Low Motivation to Succeed at School 228 Underachievement 230 Learned Helplessness 232 Frustration and Boredom 234 Study Skills and Work Habits 236 Procrastination 237 Academic Overload 238 Motivating Students Who Have Extra Burdens of Responsibility 242 Additional Ideas for Maximizing Motivation 243 Nature of Academic Tasks 243 Children's Involvement 243 Evaluation of Learning Processes 244

Chapter 9. Social, Emotional, and Behavioral Considerations 247

Social Concerns 247 Moving to a Gifted Classroom 248 Classroom Cultures that Support Children's Social Development 250 Friendships 251 Social Skills Problems 252

This material is protected by US Copyright and is to be used for reference purposes only.

Gifted Unlimited, LLC
12340 US Hwy 42 #453
Goshen, KY 40026
502-715-6306

Family and Sibling Relationships 254 Different Children, Different Treatment 257 Strategies for Nurturing Your Child's Social Intelligence 258

Self-Concept 260 Emotional Considerations 261 Fear of Failure 262 Fear of Success 263 Perfectionism 264 Arrogance 266 Anxiety 267 Suicide 269 Strategies for Supporting Emotional Well-Being 270 Behavioral Concerns 271 Classroom Behavior Problems 272 Computer Use and Digital Behaviors 273 Bullying 276 Cyberbullying 278 A Path Back from Bullying 279 Strategies for Dealing with Behavioral Concerns 282

Supporting Children's Social, Emotional, and Behavioral Competence 284

Chapter 10. How Does Giftedness Develop? (And What Role Do Parents Play?) 287

Nature or Nurture? Back to Origins 287 Developmental Pathways 288 Gifted Development in Childhood 289

Early Childhood: A Sensitive Period 290 The Importance of Play 292 Curiosity 294 Recommendations for Supporting Gifted Learning 295

Early Adolescence 296 Differences Between Boys and Girls 299 Girls and Giftedness 300 Boys and Giftedness 302 Gender Stereotypes and Encouraging Gifted Development 303 Adolescence 304 Being Smart and Being Funny 307 Passion, Zeal, and the "Rage to Master" 309

Effort, Persistence, Perseverance, and Practice 309 Cultural, Linguistic, and Economic Diversity 310 Prodigies and Extreme Giftedness 313 Twice- or Multiple- Exceptional: Learning Problems and

Gifted Development 316 Identification Issues with Twice- or Multiple-Exceptional

Learners 318 Recommendations for Addressing Twice- or Multiple-

Exceptionality: Reading Issues 320 Additional Strategies for Addressing Twice-Exceptionality 322

Late Adolescence: Considering Career Choices 326 Multipotentiality 326 Certainty, Uncertainty, and Time Out 328 Additional Career-Oriented Recommendations 329

Section V: Being Smart About Changing Realities In Gifted Education 333

Chapter 11. Parents And Teachers: Supporting Children's

Gifted Learning Together 335 Parents: Thinking about Change and Making Decisions 335 An Individual Education Plan 336 Considering a Change 337 Finding Reliable Information 339 Choosing a School 339 Questions to Ponder 341 Making the Decision 343 Helping Your Child Adapt to Change 344 Making the Choice Work 345 Advocacy: Helping Schools Meet Children's Needs 348 The Advocacy Process 348 Advocating for Your Child 350 Advocating for All Kids 352 Teachers:

This material is protected by US Copyright and is to be used for reference purposes only.

Gifted Unlimited, LLC
12340 US Hwy 42 #453
Goshen, KY 40026
502-715-6306

Important Considerations 355 Gaps: What's Missing? 355 What Teachers Need (And What Parents Need to Know) 356 Administrative Support 360 How Can Parents of Gifted Learners Support Teachers? 362 Being Smart about Professional Development Opportunities 363

The Dynamic Scaffolding Model (DSM) of Teacher Development 364

Putting it All Together: Our Recommendations 367 Last Words about Parents' Influence and Engagement in

Teaching and Learning 368

Chapter 12. Optimal Learning For All Children 371

Our Changing World: Solving Problems Together 371 Home-Based Experiences 372 Collaborative Efforts: Sharing Ideas and Resources 373 University-Based Gifted Education Resource Centers 375

Objectives of a Gifted Center 376 Activities of a Gifted Center 376 Support and Networking for Parents and Teachers 377 Support and Networking for Children, Adolescents, and

Families 378 Support and Networking Further Afield 378 Networking for Purposes of Research, Publication, and

Dissemination 379 Time-Honored Wisdom for Meeting Today's Challenges 379 Leadership 380 Going Beyond the Academic Curriculum 383 Two-Eyed Seeing: Indigenous Perspectives and Gifted Education 384 Music: Fortifying the Mind, Soul, and Spirit 386 Philosophy: A Sure Path to Thinking and Knowing 390 Nature: Boundless Benefits and Gifted Learning Opportunities 392 Strengthening Communities and Strengthening Oneself 394 Responding to Cutbacks in Education 395 Changing Realities 397 Ways to Love a Child 400 Being Smart about Tomorrow 401

Endnotes 403

References 427

About the Authors 459

This material is protected by US Copyright and is to be used for reference purposes only.

Gifted Unlimited, LLC
12340 US Hwy 42 #453
Goshen, KY 40026
502-715-6306